POLICY

Part tests. You may take a part test (i.e. one, two or three skills) if – but only if – you provide evidence with your application that you have already reached the level(s) that you need in the other skill(s). Please note that, if you plan to combine results from different tests and/or testing systems (e.g. ISLPR and IELTS), you should check with the registration authority whether they will accept combinations and what conditions they set.

Re-tests. If you wish to repeat a full test or to be re-tested in any skill(s), you must wait at least four weeks from the date of your previous test.

Results. Results for tests conducted at our office are generally ready seven working days after the test. On or before the seventh working day, the results will be posted to the mail address that you have written on the application form. We normally send the results directly to the registration authority. If you wish to collect your results letter in person, you must tell our Administrative Officer when you sit for your test. If you wish to make a special arrangement (e.g. a friend to collect the statement of results), you must discuss this with the Administrative Officer.

Life of results. We recommend that the results for any skill should be valid for 12 months from the date the skill was tested. Some authorities extend this to 24 months.

Re-checks. If you are not satisfied with your results, you may apply for a re-check of one or more skills within four weeks of the test date. Re-check application forms with details are available from our Administrative Officer.

CONDITIONS

- You must pay the test fee when you submit the form. Please note that the fees below apply to tests conducted at our office.
- If you wish to cancel your test and you notify our Administrative Officer no later than 4:30 pm seven days before the booked test date (or, if the test date has not been finalised, seven days before the Friday of the preferred week), the test fee will be refunded, less an administration charge of $80 (incl. GST). If you do not give seven days advance notice, no refund will be given.
- If you wish to change the date or time of a booked test, notify our Administrative Officer no later than 4:30 pm seven days before the test date. If you do not give seven days advance notice, you must pay an administration charge of $80 (incl. GST).
- If you arrive late for your test, you may be required to re-book and pay an administration charge of $80 (incl. GST).
- On your test day, you must present your passport. Other forms of identification may be acceptable under certain conditions (see your appointment letter). Your photograph will be taken at the time of the test and may be reproduced on your statement of results.
- You must sign that you have read and that you accept these conditions.

ANSWERS TO FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT ISLPR® TESTS

- Where can I take a test?

Tests are generally conducted at our office at Eight Mile Plains. If there is sufficient demand in another city or country, testers may travel there to conduct tests. In such cases, the cost of the test is increased to cover travel and accommodation expenses.

- When can I take a test at the ISLPR LANGUAGE SERVICES office at Eight Mile Plains?

Except when the office is closed for the Christmas/New Year holiday period, tests are conducted every week. They are generally conducted on weekdays (Monday to Friday) between 9:00 am and 4:30 pm. On the application form, we ask you to tell us the week that you would prefer and any days or hours during that week that would not be suitable for you.

- When should I apply for my test?

We recommend that you apply at least 14 days in advance. We are very busy at critical periods in the academic year (e.g. the weeks before the start of semesters or direct entry programs) so, if you want a test at these times, you should apply early.

- Can I take only a part of a test?

You can do a part test (one, two, or three skills) if – but only if – you provide evidence with your application that you have already reached the level(s) that you need in the other skill(s). Please note that, if you plan to combine results from different testing systems (e.g. ISLPR and IELTS), you should check whether the registration authority will accept combinations and what conditions they set.

- How can I find out what level(s) I need?

Most registration authorities publish the levels they require. The highest level on the ISLPR scale is 5.

- How long does the test take?

A full test takes about two and a half hours. The one-to-one interview during which Speaking, Listening and Reading skills are tested takes about 75 minutes. For the Writing test, the tester explains the tasks and then you have 60 minutes to write your answers. A part test takes less time.

- How quickly can I get my result?

Test results are generally ready in seven working days. See the POLICY page for details.

- How are test results reported?

Results are reported in a written statement. You will receive a profile (e.g. Speaking: 3 Listening: 3 Reading: 3+ Writing: 2+). No 'overall' score is given. Your profile will be matched against the profile required.

- Can I get an extra copy of my results?

Extra statements of results can be provided. The administration charge is $25 (incl. GST) per statement. Advance notice of at least two working days is normally required. Unless the results are to be sent directly to the address you originally gave on your application, you will be required to produce ID.

- If my levels are not high enough, how long must I wait before I can re-take the test?

It takes time for proficiency to improve, so you must wait a minimum of four weeks between tests.

- If my levels are not high enough, can I get feedback on my test?

Under certain conditions we give feedback. Please contact our Administrative Officer.

- How much does a test at the ISLPR LANGUAGE SERVICES office cost?

The test fee depends on how many skills you are taking. Please see the POLICY page.

- Can I get an example of the test?

Your test will be custom built to your particular situation. It is not possible to show exactly what any particular test will be like. Therefore we provide guidelines (see following page) but we have not published examples.

- How can I prepare for my test?

You should practise using English in a wide range of communication situations. Focus in particular on the kind of language that you will need in your professional role(s) and try to find a native speaker of English from a related professional field who is willing to give you feedback. Try also to get permission to spend time in Australian or NZ workplaces that are related to your profession (e.g. as a volunteer) to immerse yourself in the language and the culture. Reading and Listening to authentic texts (e.g. Australian newspapers and radio programs) are very important.

We run short courses (ISLPR Preparation Courses) at our office to familiarise applicants with the ISLPR test method. Ask our Administrative Officer for details.

If you are preparing outside Australia, you can access newspapers on the web, and radio programs through Radio Australia or through your computer (go to <http://www.abc.net.au/>).

We do not recommend that you prepare for an ISLPR test in the way that many candidates prepare for some other English tests (e.g. memorising tasks that they hope to get).

GUIDELINES FOR TESTS FOR OVERSEAS-TRAINED TEACHERS

In consultation with staff of the Queensland College of Teachers, we have developed an approach to testing that focuses on the English language used by teachers in their roles as practitioners and professionals in Australian society.

The form of the test

Speaking, Listening and Reading skills are tested in a one-to-one interview that takes about 75 minutes. This interview is audio-recorded. For the Writing test, the tester will give you task sheets and explain the tasks to you; then you will have 60 minutes to write.

Speaking

Speaking skills are judged throughout the interview. The first part of the interview (about 15 minutes) is a conversation about education-related topics. The tester is likely to ask you to talk about some aspect of your personal experience and to discuss issues related to education and the socialisation of young people. If you are not being tested in Listening and Reading, the tester may ask you to read something aloud, to talk about something external (e.g. a photograph) or to take part in a simulation about some aspect of the educational process (e.g. a classroom interaction).

Listening

Listening skills are judged throughout the interview. In one part of the interview, however, there is a particular focus on Listening. You will listen to authentic texts related to education and the socialisation of young people. After you have listened to a text, you will demonstrate your comprehension by talking to the tester about it. With longer texts, you may choose to take notes as an aid to memory. The tester may check your comprehension of a section of a text and then resume playing the tape. Generally any text is heard only once; occasionally a short segment may be repeated so that the tester can check your comprehension of certain key details. The texts may be news stories, news commentaries, interviews, talk-back, documentary material, community announcements or advertisements. The voices are mainly those of speakers of standard Australian English but there may be segments with other varieties of English. The tester is likely to focus on your understanding of children's speech.

Reading

In another part of the interview, you will read a variety of texts related to education and the socialisation of young people. You will demonstrate your understanding of a text by talking to the tester about it. Texts may be selected from the following: curriculum materials (e.g. syllabuses or text-books), research reports, material from the mass media or professional journals (e.g. news stories, feature stories, editorials, 'letters to the editor', columnists' opinions, articles, reviews), community information (e.g. brochures), advertisements, material related to conditions of employment (e.g. newsletters from an employer or union). The time allowed for the initial (silent) reading will depend on the type and length of the text, with limited flexibility to account for individual differences in speed. You may refer back to the text while you talk to the tester. Dictionary use is not allowed.

You will also be asked to read aloud a short text. This is likely to be a notice for students, a 'big book', or a self-contained section of a text-book (depending on your specialisation).

Writing

You will write two texts, totalling about 400 words, in 60 minutes. One of the texts will be directly related to teaching practice. The audience is likely to be students, parents, colleagues or other members of the immediate school community, or officers in the education system. The other task will be a memo, report, article or open letter (e.g. a 'letter to the editor' of a newspaper) in which you will be expected to express opinions about education or the socialisation of young people. Dictionary use is not allowed.

How we judge your language

In Speaking and Writing, we are judging the accuracy, range, appropriateness and fluency of the language you use and how well the ideas you communicate – including your personal opinions – match the requirements of the tasks you are given. Your flexibility (ability to cope with tasks and ideas that you have not been practising) is important in both Speaking and Writing.

In Listening and Reading, we are judging how well you understand the information requested. This may include the speaker's or writer's intentions and attitudes as well as the general ideas and specific details of the text. Your ability to cope with unfamiliar vocabulary and other features of the language is important. In Reading tasks, excessively slow reading will be taken into account.
